GOOD FAKE STORY SPOILED.

Congress Did Not Prohibit
One Dollar Checks.

Treasury Department Issues Statement Concerning the Matter.

The following story has been going the rounds of the press:

There is probably not one person in a hundred who knows that the last Congress enacted a law that concerns the rights of business men and individuals in issuing checks, due bills etc. nevertheless it is true.
The law which will take effect January 1st is as follows: "No person shall make, issue or circulate or pay out any note, check, memorandum, token or other obligation for a less sum than one dollar, intended to circulate as money or to be received or used in lieu of lawful money of United States, and every person so offering shall be fined not more than $500 or imprisoned not more than six months, or both." This means that if a person owes a debt of less than one dollar he cannot pay it by a check or draft, but must pay it in cash. He cannot issue a due bill, note, check or "memorandum" for a less amount than one dollar, and if he inadvertently or ignorantly does so, he is subject to a fine of $500 or both. The only way out of it, if you owe an amount less than one dollar and haven't the change about you, is to give a check for the dollar and let your creditor pay you the difference, and that is often impracticable.

A BIG FAKE.

The above "fake" story has been published broadcast and has caused a storm of protest to be centered upon the authorities. That it is without foundation in fact is shown by the following statement issued by Treasury Department:

"There is no law which stops a man or woman from writing a check for less than a dollar, despite reports to that effect. A number of inquiries have been received at the Department regarding a statement that there was such a provision in the penal code about to go into effect.
The law governing the subject, instead of being a new one, was enacted back in the sixties, and has never been construed to apply to checks on deposit. Its purpose is to prevent the circulation of private paper as lawful money itself."

SKULL IS CRUSHED WITH BASEBALL BAT.

Delbert Osborne Kills Wm. Corum
Near Beach Grove—Great Excitement Caused.

Calhoun, Ky., Nov. 5.—Delbert Osborne, fifteen years of age, was brought to Calhoun this morning and placed in jail, charged with the murder of William Corum, seventeen years of age, at the Glover school house, four miles east of Beech Grove.
The boys were returning to their homes from school on Thursday afternoon. They had been throwing clods, it is said, at one another. Osborne became angry and, picking up a baseball bat, struck Corum a hard blow over the head. Corum fell to the ground, but was able to rise and continue on his way home.

When the boy reached home he lost consciousness and physicians were summoned. Nothing could be done to save his life, his death occurred at 5 o'- clock this morning.

A post mortem examination was held and it was found that the boy's skull had been crushed.

The sheriff went to Beech Grove and placed the Osborne boy under arrest.
He was brought to Calhoun and held without bail. He will be arraigned tomorrow and his examining trial will probably be set for Monday or Tuesday.

Osborne is a son of William T. Osborne, a prominent farmer of the Beech Grove section. Corum is a son of John Corum, also a prominent farmer.

It is said that the boys had had some trouble at school in which Corum assisted in punishing Osborne boy, but this is denied by young Osborne.

Notice.
